Case Study

Gedeon Richter Plc. streamlines its business processes and significantly reduces paper volumes with Ascertia

Client

Business Need

Gedeon Richter Plc. is one of Hungary's most recognised pharmaceutical companies and a regional multinational player in Central Europe. It is a group of companies with more than 5,000 employees in Hungary and 13,000 employees in more than 50 countries worldwide.

In the scope of digitisation, streamlining business processes and moving toward paperless offices created a strong need for the deployment of a digital solution. This was significantly accelerated by the COVID-19 pandemic and the need to continue to ensure compliance with stringent pharmaceutical industry requirements.

Selection Process

Gedeon Richter chose Ascertia's SigningHub solution because of its simple, intuitive workflow management, extensive functionality, integration capabilities and the possibility of an on-premise deployment option.

Solution

Gedeon Richter uses Ascertia's ADSS signing service and SigningHub workflow management to electronically sign large volumes of internal documents essential to the pharmaceutical industry while maintaining the ability to integrate the signing capability provided by an external trust service provider (TSP). This solution ensures that business processes are accelerated and authenticated remotely, removing the need to sign documents in-person or in a specific location.

Result

Ascertia's solutions have provided Gedeon Richter with business value that has made many business processes faster, simpler and more efficient. The amount of paper used and the need for personal interaction for document signing has decreased, reducing the ecological footprint of pharmaceutical production.

Ascertia has provided us with streamlined integration and technical support, creating a solution we can use as a standalone system but with opportunity to integrate in future. With the help of SigningHub, we have made our processes more efficient and faster. We strive to leverage the solution's functional capabilities in as many business processes as possible.
